Homily: "Golden Calves" Rev David Smithson

Morning Tea: Melanie

The Old Testament reading for Sunday 11th (Exodus 32:1-14) is one of the most sobering passages in the Old Testament. It's the story of the golden calf. At first glance, it may seem like an ancient story about people worshipping a forbidden statue made of gold. But when we look more closely, we discover that this passage speaks directly to our lives today. This story teaches us about the danger of turning away from God, the seriousness of sin, and the wonderful mercy of God toward His people. God bless, David
